MYSTERIOUS CLOCK.

We know a queer quaint old Frenchman in New Orleans. He is in possession of an old clock, which he brought from France, and which he says is just his own age, sixty-nine, having been completed by his father the very day that he was born. Upon the evening of his last birth-day, he and his helpmate sat together late in the evening chatting about early days and la belle France, over a generous little pitcher of warm stimulant, an unusual indulgence in honor of the occasion.

The old pair became mutted and melancholy over their reminiscenses, and yet when the pitcher was finished, went to bed in a tender state of luxurious unhappiness. The old clock struck midnight as the eyes of the watchmaker were closing in their first doze, and as he fell away into slumber, a monotonous tick, tick, tick, seemed to commence right at his head in the wall. He turned over, hearing the ominous death warning still, and at length resolving to disregard it, buried his head in the pillow with a brief sob for boyish times, addressed himself to sleep. Heavy indistinctness came over him, but not sleep, leaving him still conscious of a tick, tick, tick, increasing to a rap, rap, rap, and growing, finally, into a vehement thump, thump, thump!

Just as the old fellow was sinking into obliviousness of this annoyance, his old clock in she corner suddenly struck one, which aroused him for a moment, as he thought it could not be more than twenty minutes past twelve, but concluding he must have been deceived by his dozing, he tried again to slumber. Worse than ever sounded the busy little invisible phantom in the pillow, like Macbeth's conscience, crying "sleep no more!" What was the poor watchmaker's consternation when the old French clock in the corner again struck one! He started, paused, and then jumped upright in the bed. He deliberated a moment in puzzled astonishment, and then concluded it must be two o'clock, and he must have missed the first tap of the hammer. Laying quietly down again, his head scarcely touched the pillow before one o'clock was sounded once more distinctly from the clock bell! The old fellow flung himself beneath the blankets, and covered up his head. His conviction was, that the old clock, which had noted every minute of his being for sixty-nine years, was now warning him of instant doom, and he awoke up his wife, entreating her to keep herself perfectly comfortable, as it was certainly his last night upon earth. The old lady obeyed him to the letter about making herself comfortable, as she went right to sleep again with the utmost expedition.

Dang! With a heavy and sullen sound, and devoid of its usual ringing vibration, again the hammer rose and kissed the clock bell! The old Frenchman listened beneath the blankets in a paralysis of fright, and shivering in a chill perspiration. Tick, tick, tick, and rap, rap, rap, rap, followed rapidly by the furious thump, thump, thump, thump! still went on,—as if an army of blacksmiths from fairy land were hard at work in the middle of his pillow—

"With clink of hammers closing rivets up."

Presently another conviction settled upon him, and he shook his wife again to ask her if she did not hear the upholster's men at work upon his coffin. Hush!—Cling!—pause—clink! clink! went the old clock again, with three irregular and dull strokes upon the bell.

"Mon Dieu, c'est six fois que j'ai entendu sonner une heure!" tremblingly ejaculated the Frenchman.

At this moment the bell-hammer started into more furious agitation than ever, and one o'clock fairly struck twelve before there was a cessation of the strokes! Our poor old French friend went to work at his prayers, concluding he had no time to lose; while the old woman, without saying a word jumped out of bed, struck a light, and opened the clock to see what was the matter.

The mountain ceased to labor, and out jumped a terrified little mouse! The old man awoke in the morning, as grey as a badger, which, however, is not so surprising when we consider that he was very grey when he went to bed.—St. Louis Reveille.

Wages of Labor.

From an instructive article on the subject of agricultural labor in different countries, its wages, and the comparative condition of the laborer, we condense the following facts In our estimates we have called the shilling sterling 22 cents, tho' its value is a trifle less; and the comparison, though instituted with the English laborer, can be easily made with those of this country.

In England, the average rate of agricultural wages, for an able man with a family, is 9 shillings, $1 93 cents per week. From this is to be deducted cottage rent, at 33 cents per week, leaving $1 63 cents per week to provide himself with the necessaries of life.

In France, a laborer in the same situation receives $1 04 per week; in Prussia, 66 cents; in Germany, $1 02 per week; in Holland and Belgium, $1 20 per week; in Italy and the Austrian States, $1 15 cents. It will be remembered that these averages are those of the common laborer, shepherds, carpenters, and mechanics receiving rather more. The food which the wages named above will purchase in the several countries, is stated as follows:

In England, the laborer can obtain for his 163 cents, or his week's wages, either 39 pounds of bread, or 11¼ pounds of meat; 7¼ pounds of butter, 12½ pounds of cheese; or 174 pounds potatoes.

In France, with his 104 cents, he can buy either 46 lbs. bread; 13¼ lbs. meat; or 261 pounds of potatoes.

In Prussia, with his 66 cents per week, the laborer can buy either 36 lbs. of bread, 16 lbs. of meat; or 13¾ lbs. butter.

In Germany, with 102 cents he can obtain either 43¼ lbs. of bread, 13 lbs. of meat, 11¼ lbs. of butter, 24 lbs. of cheese, or 54 quarts of beer.

In Holland and Belgium, 123 cents will buy either 53 lbs. of bread, 22 lbs. of beef, or 460 lbs. of potatoes.

In Italy and the Austrian States, the laborer can buy with his 115 cents eitcer 50 lbs. of bread, 22 lbs. of beef, 13 lbs. of butter, 3 lbs. of cheese, or 168 lbs. of potatoes.

The Blind Chaplain.

Alluding to Mr. Milburn, the recently elected Chaplain of the House of Representatives, the Washington correspondent of the Boston Post says that he was on his way to the city of New York, where he intended to submit to a surgical operation, in the hope of making a last experiment for the restoration of his eyesight. On board the boat, after leaving Lexington, on a tine Sabbath morning, he was requested by a few of the passengers to conduct religious exercises. He consented—sung a hymn, offered up a prayer, and preached a sermon. The audience was not only delighted, but irresistibly enchained, by his rich and extemporaneous eloquence, and at the conclusion of the services they came forward, as it were, en masse, to learn his past history and future intentions. Among the number were several senators and representatives from the West, who begged the blind preacher to tarry a few days at Washington, and they would endeavor to elect him the Chaplain of the House. He consented, and they have kept their word. That he will, in all respects, fully justify the generous confidence of his friends, does not admit of doubt.

Mount Lebanon.

THE AMERICAN MISSION BROKEN UP.—We mentioned some weeks since, the appointment by the Sublime Porte, of a Commissioner called Cheekeh Effendi, for the pacification of Mount Lebanon, where a bloody civil war had been raging between the Druses and Maronites. By a letter from Syria of Oct. 10th, which we find in the New York Observer, it appears that the new functionary has entered upon his duties with a strong hand. The letter says:—"Soon after landing he summoned a meeting of the consuls general and inquired if their respective Ambassadors had written to them and forbidden their further interference in the business thus entrusted to him. They answered that they had. 'Then gentlemen I trust that you will act accordingly,' and the conference was finished. Having thus disposed of the consuls, the commissioner next orders every Frank without exception to leave the mountains within ten days, and each consul accordingly requires all those under his protection to obey the summons; if any one refuses he forfeits his claim to protection. The reason Cheekeh Effendi gives for this measure is the impossibility of defending them from harm should they remain in the mountains, and any organized opposition should arise in consequence of his measures, one of which was understood to be the disarming of the mountaineers.

This order, however, finds many unprepared for this step. The French have large and expersive silk factories in the mountains, and the owner of one of them at least has refused to come down though some of his Europeun workmen have. The jesuits have had to leave their schools, and the missionaries of your American Board who had taken up their permanent residence in Abeik, have also obeyed the summons. Their schools are disbanded, most of their goods have been left, and one of them was compelled to leave a new and comfortable house he had just finished, and would ere this have occupied. But the tenth day found them all in Beirout where their schools are still open to their operations, untouched by these changes. Cheekeh Effendi at first guaranteed the safety of property that might have to be left, and now he meanly seeks to withdraw his guaranty.

The latest news is that the Druze Sheikhs have refused to meet him. Some are fleeing to the Haouran. No Fellah who owns a mule or donkey dares to show his face, for governmem is pressing all it can lay hands on to carry up grain and stores for the troops. Such is the situation of poor distracted Lebanon. What the result will be no one ventures to predict.

Dr. Wistar's Great Discovery!

IT was once said—"There is nothing new under the sun." This has been emphatically true in reference to medicine. Hundreds of pills, panaceas, expectorants and specifics, of all sorts, have been puffed into notoriety—all made mainly of the same ingredients, adding no new materials to the "healing art." But Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, furnishes a new medical agent—a new principle evolved from nature's own depository. It cures Asthma, Incipient Consumption, Liver complaint, and all diseases of the Lungs, when nothing else will. An honorable member of the Canadian Parliament, writes that it has cured him of asthma of ten years' standing.

A. Williams, attorney at law, 58 William street, New York, has been cured of the same disease of twenty-four years' standing.

Mr. Cozens, of New Jersey, makes affidavit that it cured him of a supposed consumption, after his physicians had given him up to die; and so with hundreds of others.

☞ Remember we positively, in no case, palm off unreal cures produced by this invaluable remedy.

☞ Be sure to get Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry —there are imitations!

Rubefacient.

PITTSBURGH, December 5th, 1844.—Messrs. B. A. Fahnestock & Co.—Gentlemen: I had the misfortune, day before yesterday to have my left thumb caught in a windlass, by which it was severely mashed and bruised. The pain was intense, and the thumb was swelled almost to bursting. I could sleep none the night following, from the agony I suffered. Yesterday I called at your store to see if I could procure any thing that would afford relief. Your young man recommended the Rubefacient, and gave me a bottle; I applied some immediately, and in about an hour afterwards, I obtained om lete relief.—The swelling subsided, and the pain ceased entirely, and has not since returned. My sleep last night was sound and undisturbed. I still continue the use of it, and shall till the thumb recovers its former strength. I strongly recommend the Rubefacient as a valuable remedy for bruises. MICHAEL TWAHEY, Fifth street.

THE GIRARD LIFE INSURANCE, ANNUITY AND TRUST COMPANY of Philadelphia, Chartered in 1836—Charter Perpetual;—Capital, $300,000—BENJAMIN W. RICHARDS, President.—Continues to make insurance on lives, and endowments, and accept the trusts from individuals, corporate bodies, and courts of justice, and execute them agreeably to the desire of the parties, and receive deposites of money in trust or on interest.

The Company add a bonus at stated periods to the insurance for life, and on the 20th of January last, an addition was made to all policies for life, remaining in force and issued prior to January 1st, 1842, amounting to 10 per cent. on the sum insured in policies issued in 1837, 7½ per cent. on policies issued in 1838, and in rateable proportions according to their respective dates.

The chief object of an insurance for life is to provide a sum of money at the death of the party insured, for the benefit of a widow, children, friends or creditors; and it will be seen on an examination of the table of rates of the life insurance, which by the funds held by the trustees, to all who may feel an interest in the subject, that by paying a small sum to the office every year during his life, a person may secure to his family a very considerable amount at his decease.

When the system of Life Insurance is properly understood, it is extensively adopted, and its great advantages to all, but more especially to those who depend on their own exertions for the support of their families, or who may be desirous to secure the payment of a sum of money to their friends, creditors or children, at their decease, which they might be otherwise unable to accomplish, that the operation of the system needs but to be explained to ensure the serious consideration of the public.

In several instances it has happened that the party insured has died shortly after, having paid only one or two instalments of the premium, when his family have received from this office the full amount for which he had insured.

Full information on this important subject may be obtained by applying, personally, or by letter (post-paid) at the office of the subscriber, the authorized agent of the Girard Life Insurance Company.

Whig and Antimasonic Nomination

FOR MAYOR, ALLEGHENY CITY.

ROBERT S. CASSAT.

Judge Woodward.

There is a rumor rife that the nomination of Judge Woodward to the vacancy on the Supreme Bench, has been rejected by the Senate.

Such action of the Senate would be a decisive rebuke of the culpable spirit of partizan compromise, which nerved Mr. Polk to make the nomination, but we regret to add we do not see good authority for the rumor. The Washington papers of last night's mail are silent on the subject.

SHOCKING CALAMITY.—Yesterday, about 11 o'clock, the wall of a ruin in the burnt district, on Second street, between Market and Wood, fell outward, covering the pavement and street. The dust and noise attracted attention, but for an hour and a half it was not suspected that injury had been done to life or limb. At length the appearance of a fragment of blue cloth was discovered among the rubbish, and an examination followed which disclosed the body of a man crushed to atoms. There could be no recognitoa of the bruised and broken lineaments, but by some papers on his person, it was discovered that the victim of this terrible visitation was our fellow citizen, Charles L. Volz. He had been passing the ruin homeward, with an umbrella extended, when the wall fell! A large and dependant family are thus bereft of a protector. We have often and often appealed to the authorities to take down the threatening ruins of the burnt district. Yesterday, after the destruction of a valuable life, we perceived that somebody was busy in taking down walls.

Mr. Calhoun on the Oregon Question.

The Washington Correspondent of the Commercial Advertiser speaks thus of some important movements of Mr. Calhoun in the matter of Oregon:

"Mr. Calhoun, seeking peace in the spirit of peace, has interposed his offices, with success, between the British Minister and Mr. Buchanan.—The negotiation is not resumed, but, what amounts to the same thing, measures are taken for its renewal at a future time after, hearing farther from the British Government.

The prospect is, that the British Government will renew the negotiation on the basis of 49th parallel of latitude.

Through Mr. Calhoun's address, conferences were held yesterday and to-day, between the leading Whig and the leading Loco Foco members of both Houses on the subject, at which the following conclusions were reached, viz:

1. That there should be no war until compromise and arbitration were exhausted.
2. That no rash measures should pass Congress.
3. That Mr. Douglass's Joint Resolutions, assigned for Tuesday, Jan. 6th, should be postponed.

I may add, that Mr. Webster's information is, that the British Government will accept the offer of compromise made by Mr. Polk.

Mr. Bates, the American banker in London, has expressed that opinion.

We have often expressed great fears that, in the present attitude of England and the United States, war was almost inevitable, and that the questions how soon it should come and what were our preparations to meet it were those which deserved our most serious consideration.

The uselessness and absurdity of war in general and the folly of a war between nations so situated with regard to each other as England and the United States must have been apparent to all. But how was it to be avoided? England was firm and we were bullying. And we happen to be among those bullies who are not cowards.

Neither seemed willing to retract, and one at least took sufficient measures for vigorous attack.

Such a thing as national honor does exist, and should be preserved, although it is sneered at by some radical reformers; though whether it is worth the horror and desolation of a protracted war, and whether war is the most effectual means of preserving it, is a question that we do do not feel called upon to discuss in the premises.

Such being the state of affairs, war, or a peace maker were inevitable: and we are most happy that the latter has appeared, and thus far seems to have worked with effect. Whether "seeking peace in the spirit of peace" was Mr. Calhoun's motive in endeavoring to renew the negociations, is a matter which may admit of some question.

Oregon is not, and never will be a slaveholding territory. Texas, Mexico, or California, might have placed the question of peace or war in another light with him. But for the nation, the effect is the same, perhaps better; for interest too often prompts to more efficient exertion than benevolence.

As to the postponement of Mr. Douglass' bill, so necessary a measure to the furthering of the views attributed to Mr. Calhoun, it is said by those who assume to know his views, that he will go for every provision except that which gives land to settlers in the Oregon territory, and that he is decidedly in favor of the twelvemonth notice being promptly given.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says the conferences are going on between Mr. Pakenham and Mr. Buchanan, upon the subject of the measures now proposed to be taken by Congress for the settlers in, and emigrating to Oregon; for the extension of our jurisdiction over them and the Indian tribes; and for the establishment of a territorial government over Oregon.

We earnestly hope and believe that these peaceful reports are well founded, and that the spectacle, ridiculous if it were not so terrible, of two mighty civilized nations using all their energies and resources for the destruction of the lives and property of each other, about a matter not worthy the tithe of the treasure, not one of the lives which would be spent, and which, after years of suffering and doubt, entailed upon thousands, would inevitably be submitted to the arbitration which was rejected at the commencement.—N. Y. Evening Gazette.

New Discoveries in Pompeii.

Early in the month of October last, the scientific Congress then in session at Naples, with its President, the Minister of State, Santangelo, went to Pompeii, where in presence of that company researches were made under the direction of M. Carlo Bonucci, conservator in chief of the antiquities of the kingdom.

These operations were crowned with perfect success. In a street near the temple of Augustus, two shops were discovered filled with different cooking utensils of iron and bronze which were probably exposed for sale there. Opposite these shops was found a magazine containing blocks of the native African marble, of different sizes, among which was that of a Faun, and another representing the skeleton of a woman enveloped in full drapery. In this last statue the archeologists who were present thought to recognize the Goddess of Envy.

At one of the extremities of the street of Fortune, a house was uncovered containing in the basement a great saloon furnished like an office for business, and in one part of it were coins of the time of the Emperors Vespasian and Galba, and some marble weights. All the heighths surrounding Pompeii, and several of the streets and squares of that city, were filled with people, walking about in every direction, so that it seemed for the moment, that the old Roman city had recovered its population, its life and motion.

Murder Trials in New York.

On Friday last, William Harver was convicted of the murder of John G. Kempf, a Germau, in a drunken fracas. The prisoner is an Englishman, about 30 years of age, and has a wife and two children. The trial of Virgil Knapp, for producing the death of his cousin, Sarah Decker, by giving her oil of tansy, was then commenced. On the same day the grand jury found indictments against Patrick Campbell and John P. Hart for killing Matthew Cogan.

For the Commercial Journal.

MR. EDITOR:—You recently published some beautiful lines on "Wee Willie," one early "recalled" from this life, to another, which to us is one of higher and brighter hopes. And you would oblige at least one reader, who is attentive to your miscellaneous matter, by publishing the accompanying fragment.

On the Death of Children.

Our compassionate Father in Heaven does all things well. All his treatment of his own children is in mercy and kindness. Let us love him the more even for what might be called chastisements. We need all the helps which are vouchsafed, to lift our hearts from the present world. Being in constant and close intimacy with the things of earth, we easily become attached to them. But God has informed us that "here we have no continuing city;" that a higher and a permanent destiny is reserved for us. It is therefore suitable and necessary that our thoughts and desires should be transferred from that which is transient, to that which is everlasting. If we have treasure, it ought to be in heaven, for where our treasure is, there will our affections be centred. Our children are the most valuable of our earthly treasure, and the only part of it which is transferable to the upper world; how meet, then, that the strength of parental affection should be made to allure to that better world. And there is additional strength afforded to this allurement, from the fact, commonly received, that the more strongly are our affections placed on a child, the more certainly is it taken to heaven. God thus teaching us that thither should our thoughts be continually directed; and employing our most loved ones as an instrumentality to draw our affections up there. In this we have something resembling Jacob's Ladder, (on which the angels of God ascend and descend,) by which our affections are literally carried up into the presence of God.

It is true that love for our Savior should be stronger than affection for father, or mother, or child. But there is a beautiful condescension to our infirmities in the act of our Lord taking our children to his arms;—that as our thoughts follow them there, we may be led to behold himself—and on him centre all our affections.

Is it not then, grateful, as well as serviceable to our hearts, to mourn for departed children? Let us not forget them,—but rather consider that their translation from our presence to the presence of God, is designed to help us to walk by faith rather than by sight. These attachments begun below, may be, in the hands of our heavenly Father, "as the bands of a man," by which he would draw us to his presence, and raise us to the mansions provided for his children.

General Scott.

The following is the language of General Scott, the Senior Officer in the U. S. Army, on the subject of war. The sentiments are truly Christian, and do honor to the head and heart of this distinguished citizen: "If war be the natural state of savage tribes peace is the first want of every civilized community. War, no doubt is, under any circumstances, a great calamity; yet submission to outrage would often be a greater calamity. Of the two parties to any war, one at least must be in the wrong—not unfrequently both. An error in such an issue is, on the part of chief magistrates, ministers of State, and legislators, having a voice in the question, a crime of infinite magnitude. The murder of an individual is, in guilt comparatively, but a drop of blood. Hence the moral obligation to treat national differences with temper, justness, fairness; to see that the cause of war is not only just, but sufficient; to be sure that we do not covet our neighbor's land, "nor anything that is his;" that we are as ready to give as to demand explanation, apology, indemnity. In short, we should especially remember, "all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." This divine precept is of universal obligation. It is as applicable to rulers in their transactions with other nations, as to private individuals in their daily intercourse with each other. Power is intrusted to the former to do good, and avoid evil. Such, clearly, is the revealed will of God.

☞ The recent visit of the Queen of England to Germany does not appear to have been particularly gratifying to either party. According to the "Courier des Etats Unis," the journals of the two countries are indulging in a series of remarks in relation to it, in which a considerable quantity of acid seems to be infused. It may amuse our unpolished republican readers to see how two female sovereigns, the porcelain clay of the earth, allied by blood and friendship, are spoken of by their respective subjects. The Times says:—The sojourn at Stobzenfield was awfully stupid for her Majesty and Prince Albert. Indeed it will easily be conceived that a young and beautiful Princess, whose grace and elegance are known to all Europe must have found herself entirely out of place in that German society, where dullness and stiffness had become proverbial. Her Majesty made only a flying visit to Stobzenfield. To this a German paper thus replies:—The Queen of England and Prince Albert had but little success with us. How could it be otherwise? Victoria is a coquettish, airish young woman, rather too free in her manners, and much too broad in her jokes!!

As to Prince Albert he says nothing and apparently thinks about as much. The Royal couple made only a flying visit to Stobzenfeld. This brings out the Times again: The Queen would have been bored to death at Stobzenfeld if the Court of Prussia did not present a series of the most amusing caricatures. Only imagine those old Prussian heads perched upon bodies moving on springs by means of legs like those of a plucked heron. The Prince who draws like Raphael has brought home some capital sketches for the Duke's album. What particularly excited the admiration of her Majesty and the Prince, was the figure and tournure of the Queen Elizabeth, who undertook to rival in dignity and majesty of bearing her sister of England. Certainly the attempt was laudable, but the result was so funny that the Queen and her august spouse laughed like the Olympian Gods. Then comes the German again:

A singular menage is that of her majesty the King, and his majesty the Queen of England,—The wife commands and the husband obeys (as if there were anything strange in that:) Albert dines upon the wing of a chicken and a creme a la vanille, while Victoria devours roast beef and plum-pudding; the man wears ruffles and the wife pantaloons. In short she, a little flaxen haired, white faced woman, rides on horseback like a cuirassier, while he a stout burly lad with mustaches, plays on the guitar like a pater's daughter. The worthy couple diverted us extremely.

Perilous.

The steamboat Helen Strong was seen off the town of Erie, (on the lake) last week, without any steam up, and unable to get in by reason of the intervening ice. It is supposed that her fuel was exhausted, and that she had been driven there by the wind.

Later accounts state that she had gone ashore near Erie, and had been abandoned by her crew. The boat will probably suffer much damage, if not become a total wreck by spring.

An immense dam across a stream which carries a number of factories and workshops in Athol Centre, near Barre, Mass., gave way one day last week, during a heavy rain, causing great destruction of property. The tannery of Mr. Morse was washed away, with leather valued at several thousand dollars. The match-factory building of Mr. Lyman Hapgood was swept away. Various other persons suffered loss, and the whole amount of damage is variously estimated at from $10,000 to $20,000.

☞ The schooner Sarah Elizabeth, Smith, master, of Baltimore, bound to Mobile, with an assorted cargo, was wrecked on Carten Key, Abaco, in a severe blow on the 21st ult., and totally lost. Most of the cargo was saved in a damaged state, and, with the captain and crew, was taken to Nassau, N. P.—Mob. Her. and Tribune.

Matters Personal.

The Gazette of Wednesday, charged upon us that "as a politician, and professing to be a Whig, we had, for the sake of office, been active at a public meeting in favor of that noted traitor John Tyler, and that too, after Mr. Clay's nomination—that we had exhorted our readers to vote the whole Whig ticket, and then ourselves had voted for two of the most objectionable men on the Locofoco ticket," and we alluded to the charge with an implied promise to recur to it. We proceed to the duty.

In 1841 we were appointed Post Master of Pittsburgh, by Mr. Tyler, having been previously designated for the office, by General Harrison. It is well known, and it is not necessary to revive the animosities of the day, in order to make it plain, that we were immediately assailed with an energy and bitterness, unexampled in the political history of this county. Every offensive agency, was put in requisition against us, that private and personal hostility could suggest,

The President, Mr. Tyler, was invoked to withdraw his nomination of us to the Senate; he was asked subsequently to supersede us in office, but in vain. He stood by his nomination of us, as one demanded and justified, by the weight of testimonials in our favor, and the nomination was confirmed, we believe, unanimously. We had felt keenly, and very deeply, the assaults upon us; and we could not but feel, that the President, in sustaining us, had imposed a heavy obligation—entitled himself to our lasting gratitude.

Feeling thus, when the moment came, that Mr. Tyler's few friends in this county, met to give open countenance to his Administration, we came forward into their midst. That we might not be mistaken, we expressed ourself boldly, and we refer to the Daily Sun, Russell Errett, editor, for a report of the substance of our declaration. It was a free and full avowal, such as the strong sense of distinguished personal kindness demanded, of our friendship for Mr. Tyler. It was also a precise and positive disclaimer, that the assemblage was had with a view to discussing or urging the claims of conflicting aspirants to the Presidency. We never believed that Mr. Tyler would be in the field against Mr. Clay, for the Presidency, and we never felt that the occasion demanded of us to choose between Mr. Clay and Mr. Tyler. But we ask no advantage, and will make no screen of that fact: We went to the Tyler meeting, because we were penetrated by the sense of indebtedness to Mr. Tyler's kindness, and there we would go again, under similar circumstances, as a private person. Let us not be misunderstood: If to have lent countenance to a friend, who needed help, without abandonment of a conscientious scruple, or the surrender of a political or moral principle, is to be faithless to the Whig party, or treacherous to Henry Clay, we are now first to make the discovery. The same principle carried out, would shake the foundations of society.

Our offence is in continuing to hold office under Mr. Tyler, and going to a Tyler meeting. If to do these things, without having abandoned a political or moral principle, without having deserted Henry Clay, or relinquished a Whig principle, or Whig attachment, if to remember great kindness conferred in a day of anxiety and strife, be to offend against our political faith or our politica associations, we have done all. But we ask no indulgence. The Whig party may judge us.

This much said, we may, without impropriety add, it was notorious even at Washington, that we were a friend of Henry Clay. Mr. Tyler knew it well, but was magnanimous enough to disregard the fact and retain us in office.

When the contest for the Presidency came on, we were in our place, restrained of course, by official responsibility, and the proprieties of our station, from active participation in the conflict, but not otherwise indifferent to the result. We voted for Clay and Frelinghuysen, and we believe the columns of the Gazette, will still show a short series of articles, which, by invitation, we dedicated to the contest. When Mr. Polk was elected President, we remained sufficiently Whig to abstain altogether from application for re-appointment or continuance in office, and of course were superseded. The remainder of the story is known to our readers: we became the editor of a newspaper, a Whig newspaper, and declared that we made our paper of that stamp, because we were a Whig in education, in feeling and principle, and because we had "a confiding reliance upon the aims and principles of the Whig party."

Because of these things the Pittsburgh Gazette arraigns us and ventures to impeach our fidelity to Whig principles and to the Whig party!

Before we look at the political conduct of our assailant, we will wait to see what punishment is declared due this confession of Tylerism, hat we have always been ready to make. When this is known to us we shall peep at the political character of the editor of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

Captain Molly.

Among the great variety of persons and characters that were to be found from time to time at and about the head quarters of General Washington, was the famed Captain Molly. After her heroic achievements at the battle of Monmouth, the heroine was always received with a cordial welcome at Headquarters, where she was employed in the duties of household. She always wore an artilleryman's coat, with the cocked hat and feather, the distinguished costume of Proctor's artillery. One day the Chief accosted this remarkable woman, while she was engaged in washing some clothes, pleasantly observing: "Well, Capt. Molly, are you not almost tired of this quiet way of life, and longing to be once more on the field of battle?" "Troth your Excellency," replied the heroine, "and ye may say that; for I care not how soon I have another slap at them red coats, bad luck to them." "But what is to become of your petticoats in such event, Capt. Molly?" "Oh, long life to your Excellency, and never do ye mind them at all at all," continued this intrepid female. "Sure and it is only in the artillery your excellency knows that I would serve, and divil a fear but the smoke of the cannon will hide my petticoats."

From the Albany (Ga.) Patriot, Extra, December 17.

Loss of the Steamer Florence, through the culpable negligence of her Engineer!

The "Florence" left our wharves this morning laden with 345 bales of Cotton, for Apalachicola, and at the first bend, about a mile below the city, stove in her larboard quarter against the jutting rock of the east bank of the river, and sunk within a few minutes. The boat will, we understand, be a total loss. The deck load will be saved with but little injury, and measures were immediately taken by Capt. Moore for saving the cargo under the deck, if possible.

We learn the following particulars of this disaster, from the passengers on the Florence. They state, that, to pass the bend where this accident occurred, though the river is sufficiently wide and deep, it is usual for steamboats to back the engine, and thus pass the point. The engine was stopped in good time, and the backing bell rung. Not being promptly responded to by the Engineer, it was again and again rung, and the Pilot shouted repeatedly, through the speaking-trumpet at the top of his voice, "back her!" If the Engineer was near his post at the engine, he must have heard both the backing bell and the command of the Pilot.

Some minutes elapsed before the boat struck, giving ample time to have saved her, harmless, had the command of the Pilot been obeyed. They feel bound, in justice to all parties to state their conviction that the loss of the steamboat Florence is attributable alone, to the negligence of Samuel Hill, the Engineer! and that no blame can attach to Capt. Moore, the Pilot, or any officer on board. This is the statement of some of our most respectable citizens, who were passengers on the Florence.

The statement of Stephen Pierce, the carpenter, who was in the Engine room before and at the time of the accident, substantially verifies, upon his oath, the statement of the passengers, with the addition of some unimportant particulars.

We regret the occurrence of this accident upon many accounts; but that which most concerns the public, is the injury which a misstatement of the facts is calculated to do to the reputation of the Flint River, and the pecuniary interests of this whole section of country. The river could not be in better boating order than it is at present, and this accident occurred, without at all being dependent upon the state of the river.

We understand the cotton was insured in about equal quantities in the Atlantic Mutual Insurance, Pelican, and Croton Offices. The boat was owned by Col. Robert Floyd, of Apalachicola, and was not insured.

Twenty-ninth Congress.

FIRST SESSION.

Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30, 1845.

SENATE.

The morning hour was occupied by the presentation of petitions and the disposal of other unimportant matters.

Mr. Hannegan then called up the following resolutions, offered by him yesterday, with a view to appointing a day for their their consideration.

Resolved, That the country included within the parallels of 42 and 54 degrees 40 minutes north latitude, and extending from the Rocky Mountains to the Pacific Ocean, known as the Territory of Oregon, is the property, and part and parcel of the United States.

Resolved, That there exists no power in this Government to transfer its soil, and the allegiance of its citizens to the dominion, authority, control, and subjection of any Foreign power, State or Sovereignty.

Resolved, That the abandonment or surrender of any portion of the Territory of Oregon, would be an abandonment of the honor, the character, and the best interests of the American people.

IMPROVED ASPECT OF THE OREGON QUESTION.

Rumors have become facts in regard to Mr. Calhoun's opinions, and to-day he has spoken for himself, both by word of mouth and the introduction of a series of resolutions which have been prepared in opposition to those introduced by Mr. Hannegan of Ia. Against these resolutions Mr. Calhoun has committed himself by the strongest possible language. He regards them as an actual and intended censure upon the President of the United States for offering to negotiate upon the line of the 49th degree of north latitude, and as a threat that he must not do so again. Mr. Hannegan admitted in the debate of to-day that the resolutions presented by him were intended as a warning to the Executive not to renew the offer, or accept it if offered by Great Britain, which the British Minister recently declined.

Against opinions like these Mr. CALHOUN has, under advice from friends, and from his own convictions of public duty, committed himself at once. The following resolutions were submitted by him immediately after Mr. HANNEGAN had had called from the table those of a totally opposite character which he had yesterday presented for the consideration of the Senate:

Resolved, That the President of the United States has the power by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties provided that two thirds of the Senate concur.

Resolved, That the power of making treaties embraces that of fixing and settling boundaries between the territories and possessions of the United States and those of other powers in cases of conflicting claims between them in reference to the same.

Resolved, That however clear their claims, in their opinions, to the country included between the parallels of 42° and 54° 40' north latitude, and extending from the Rocky Mountains to the Pacific Ocean, known as the territory of Oregon, there now exists and have always existed conflicting claims to the possession of the same between us and Great Britain—the adjustment of which has been the subject of negotiation between the respective Governments.

Resolved, That the President of the U. S. has rightfully the power under the Constitution by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, provided two thirds of the same concur, to adjust by treaty the claims of the two Governments to the said territory, by fixing a boundary for their present possessions.

Resolved, That the President of the U. S. in renewing the offer in the spirit of peace and compromise to establish the 49th degree of north latitude as a line between the two countries to the said territory, did not abandon the honor, character or the best interests of the American people, or exceed the powers vested in him by the Constitution to make treaties.

The debate upon these and the previous Resolutions was commenced by the Senator from Indiana, who in all his remarks held the most extreme and radical opinions as to our right to the whole of Oregon, and the limited powers of the Executive in abting upon a question like this.

Mr. Calhoun chose not to be drawn very far into the discussion, but in addition to the views expressed in the Resolutions above quoted, he said that Oregon had no truer friend than himself—that the Resolutions of the Senator from Indiana would operate as a censure upon the Executive—that he was well satisfied to leave the whole subject in his hands—that he approved entirely of the President's offer of the 49th degree—that war ought not to be talked of until negotiations were hopeless, and that the Executive was competent to make treaties and decide the question.

In these opinions Mr. Haywood, of N. Carolina, concurred, except that he was more direct in his rebuke of Mr. Hannegan in censuring the President thus early for what had been done. He was opposed to the whole subject embraced in the abstract Resolutions, and to any discussion of these questions at this time, unless they should be conducted with closed doors. Like Mr. Calhoun, he wished to know what the President would be able to do by treaty before running wild in debate. It would be time enough for the Senate to deliberate when the President had ceased to act. He, for one, had confidence in what the Executive would do and in what he had done.

Mr. Allen of Ohio remately insinuated that all this war cry now heard in the country was got up by property holders who were afraid of their shadows.—He was for giving the one year's notice and extending jurisdiction over the whole territory. Mr. Calhoun said upon this subject he meant to be understood. The question now before the Senate was one as to the power of the President and his right to negotiate. If war came he should be found at his post and doing his duty; but that was not the question before the Senate. When the Resolution of the Senator from Ohio came up before the Senate (to put an end to the Joint Occupancy) he should offer a substitute for that also.

Mr. Hannegan here intimated his willingness to lay his Resolutions upon the table until the whole subject was brought forward for debate.

Mr. Benton, with a meaning in his remark, said that he would vote to lay the Resolution upon the table without this qualification.

Thus ended the debate. The other business done was of no importance.

Correspondence of the Baltimore American.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31, 1345.

The Senate have adjourned over to Saturday and the House to Friday, in order to give the members and others an opportunity of visiting the White House to-morrow.

The Committee on the Judiciary have reported a bill in the House which all the officers of the Government will hereafter be appointed for four years, subject, to a new appointment of four more—the officers to be selected from the Congressional districts of the several States, and the District of Columbia to be regarded as one Congressional District. The officers already in office are to go out in four years, and to be divided into four classes,—one class to retire each year. The bill was reported under instructions from the House, and is very likely to pass the House.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Tibbatts reported a Joint Resolution authorizing the President to purchase the Stock in the Portland and Louisville canal.

A bill making appropriations for the improvement of certain harbors and rivers, was reported by Mr. Tibbatts, with a motion for a second reading and reference to the Committee of the Whole.

The following appropriations are a part of those embodied in the bill.

For the Ohio river above the falls,	$20,000
For the Ohio river below the falls,	240,000
For the Red River,	30,000
For St. Louis Harbor,	73,000

Unparalleled Brutality.

In the Memphis Eagle we find a statement, which appears to be well authenticated, to the effect that Capt. O'Harra, of the steamboat Independence, put ashore at Island 65, in the Mississippi, on the 15th inst., about a hundred passengers, chiefly German emigrants—the bar at that island being difficult to pass in low water, and after landing them with directions to join the boat at a designated point above, he proceeded on his way, and left them on the beach in most inclement weather, without food or covering except the clothes they had on.

Seven of them were found and taken from the beach by the steamboat Empress on the morning of the 16th. The others, it is presumed, had wandered off in search of food and shelter.—Lou. Jour.

LOSS OF THE STEAMER BELLE ZANE—Loss of Life—We copy the following from the Memphis Appeal of the 23d inst: The steamer Bulletin, reports the steamer Belle Zane sunk at the head of Island 74, by which thirty four persons are said to be drowned. P. G. Rivers, of Ark., was passenger on the boat, he swam ashore, where he was fortunate enough to procure a skill, and by his energetic conduct was the means of saving eight or ten lives

☞ At its recent session, the Legislature of South Carolina adopted a resolution, two to one, in favor of electing electors of President and Vice President by the people.

Utility of the Barometer on the Lakes.

Before the late gale on Lake Michigan, Captain Fearing, who was running down the Lake in his beautiful vessel, the Maria Hiliard, with a full cargo for Buffalo, upon consulting his barometer found that the mercury was falling fast. Perceiving this, and exercising a wise caution, he immediately put back, and made our port just before that terrific gale commenced, in which the Major Oliver and another craft went ashore, and which did a large amount of damage to vessels not in port.—Chicago Journal.

We trust that Capt., Fearing is not by any means the only mariner who has discovered the "utility of the barometer." Its bearings may be observed with peculiar advantage upon the Lakes. It indicates with unerring certainty, the countinuance of "fair" weather, and the approach of "rain" and "storm." The master of a vessel is never deceived by his barometer. If he errs, it is when he neglects or disregards its admonitions.

The barometer struggled for many years with prejudice and ignorance, but there is now, we believe, few American shipmasters who do not consult it faithfully and confide in it implicitly. And the few who, from carelessness or temerity, disobey its warnings, pay the penalty in riven canvass and lost spars and topmasts. Some ambitious captains are unwilling to lose time by shortening sail while all is "fair," but those who obey their barometer gain more by making sail when the mercury begins to rise, even though the gale has not yet abated than they lose by getting things snug in anticipation of it.—Albany Evening Journal.

Original Anecdote of the Beggars of Mullingar.

When the gallant 50th were removed to Mullingar, it was supposed that this town produced a greater number of beggars than any in the king's dominions. A swarm of paupers rendered the streets almost impassible, and ingress or egress to or from a shop occasionally impracticable. Now, beggars were to the head major an abomination, and for two days he ensconced himself in his lodgings, rather than encounter the beggars at Mullingar. Confinement will increase bile, and bile may induce gout: and, at last, wearied of captivity, he sallied forth, and to every applicant for relief he replied by specifying an early day on which he wished the numerous supplicants to call upon him at a particular hour, and above all things to be punctual. His wish was attended to faithfully, and on the expected moment the street where he resided was completely blocked up. The major under a volley of blessings, appeared at the hall door.

"Are you all here?" he inquired, in accents of tenderest compassion.

"All, yer honor—all, young and ould!" responded a big beggarman.

"We're all here, Colonel, avourneen!" exclaimed a red virago, "but my poor man Brieny Biccogh; and he, the cratur, fell into the fire on Saturday night, and him hearty, and sorrow a stir can he make, good or bad."

"Ah, then," said the humane commander, "why should poor Brieny be left out? Arrah, run yourself, and bring the cripple to us!"

In a twinkling off went the red virago, and after a short absence issued from a neighboring lane, with Brieny on her shoulders.

"Are you all here now? inquired the tender hearted major.

"Every single sowl of us!" said an old woman, in reply.

Ogh! that the light of Heaven may shine on his honor's dying hour, but it's he that is tender to the poor!"

"Amen!" responded a hundred voices.

"Silence!" said the major, as he produced a small book bound in red morocco.

'Whist, ye sowls!" cried the big beggarman.

"Are ye listening!"

"Sha! sha! yes, yes!" was responded in English and Irish.

"Then by the contents of this blessed book a rap I wont give one of ye, you vagabonds, if I remained a twelvemonth in Millingar!"

☞ CAN CONSUMPTION BE CURED?—This question is asked by many anxious souls, who, perhaps, are in the last stage of disease, or have some near or valuable friends thus afflicted; to this I answer, painful as it is to say, that few ever recover. Death cannot be deprived of its prey, when disease has knitted its fatal throes upon the vitals. It is therefore of the utmost importance for all persons who may have a bad cold, cough, pain in the breast and side, soreness of the throat, difficulty of raising up the phlegm and matter that accumulates upon the lungs, in the primary stages, and lead a consumption when not removed. To such as are afflicted, I would recommend them to procure at once a few bottles of Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy which is certain to remove all the first symptoms that so often barge long to the system, and finally destroy life. A RELIEVED SUFFERER.

LOCAL MATTERS.

The Soiree.

It affords us pleasure, to state that the colored population of our cities, enjoyed themselves at the Ark, on New Year's night, without any thing occurring to mar the harmony of their festivities Many respectable white folks attended, all of whom, we believe, expressed themselves highly pleased with the entertainments. The gathering was large. We felt a desire to be present, but were prevented: that we would have spent the evening happily, we have no doubt.

Our colored citizens are certainly making progress in the estimation of the public.

DISTRICT COURT,sitting in Chancery, his Honor R. C. Grier, Chancellor.—The case of Parsons et ux, orators, and Joyce et al, respondents, was argued on Wednesday last. Callan and M'Connell for orators, Mellon, Tassey and Lowrie, for respondents.

We learn from a gentleman who heard the argument, that his Hon. the Chancellor, intimated a decree would be made in conformity to the prayer of the orators.

POLICE.—There were four cases yesterday morning, before his honor the Mayor, and all impeached of drunkeness and one of them for the addition of malicious mischief—throwing stones, &c. The whole were sent to the hill.

FALSE ALARMS.—On Thursday, January 1st, we had three false alarms of fire.

For the Commercial Journal.

New Years day on the Allegheny.

The thermometer was above the freezing point, and the ice on the river soft, and here and there covered with water, still as it was about a foot thick there was no danger, and above the Bayardstown bridge, it was covered with parties of boys and young men skating. All these, however, were Pittsburghers, for the boys of Allegheny stood on the bank, afraid to venture on the ice as they were far outnumbered, and would have met with a very rough reception. Some dozen on each side had pistols and, one or two, shot guns, and throughout the day, they were constantly firing at each other. The writer of this article knows from ocular demonstration that the guns and pistols were loaded with shot and slugs, and if no damage was done: it is to be attributed, not to the vigilance of the police, but solely to the number of the Pittsburghers which, giving their opponents no chance at close quarters, compelled them to remain on shore, and the pistols could not carry from the first pier to the top of the bank. If this rioting is allowed to go any farther, no one can predict what the consequences may be; already two or three boys have been slightly wounded, twice that number badly beaten, and feelings of hatred engendered which it will require a long time to wear away.—If the river should be again frozen over this winter, there will be a continual strife for the possession of the ice, and neither party will be able to skate in peace. A few years ago snow balls were the most dangerous weapons employed by boys, and little or no injury was done, but the use of fire arms should be immediately stopped, and we think if one or two of the ringleaders were arrested, the sister cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny would be no longer characterized by such digraceful scenes, as usbered in the new year on the Allegheny.

River Matters.

☞Last evening at dark there were scant four feet water in the channel, and rising, we noticed a number of boats preparing to depart. It has rained steadily for the last forty eight hours. The snow has entirely disappeared, and navigation will be resumed certainly by Monday.

☞The steamer Allegheny, Capt. R. Gray, leaves to-day for New Orleans and all intermediate ports.

☞The fine steamer Susquehanna, Capt. Hutchsion, leaves to day for St. Louis and all intermediate ports.

☞The Louisville Journal of the 29th says: On Saturday the river froze over opposite Jeffersonville, and many persons passed over on the ice. The river is gorged at the Flats. Two boats came through the canal yesterday. The weather has moderated so much that if it continues a few days more, of which there is a fair prospect, the river will again be open

☞The St. Louis Republican of Thursday says: The weather, for several days past, has been clear and comparatively mild. The ice on the river remains firm and strong, and teams, &c., cross now with entire safety.

☞The Nashville Orthopolitan of the 26th says: The weather is cool, clear and pleasant. The Senate, Alps, Rose of Sharon were up this morning, and report about 4½ feet water on Harpeth Shoals, and still falling. The new steamer Cornelius Connor, is looked for to-day, and will have quick despatch for New Orleans.

THE COMMERCE came up last night and left this morning, reporting the Ohio closed at Smithland. The China came down, and we report 4½ feet water on the Shoals and still falling.

☞The steamer Palestine arrived at New Orleans on the 19th.

☞The Cincinnati Gazette of the 30th says: "The decline in the river continues at this point, and a good deal of ice was still running yesterday. The weather is of spring warmth, and the ice in the street gutters is thawing and running off rapidly. Last evening the sky was overcast."

☞The Cincinnati Enquirer of the 30th of December says: "We learn from a gentleman, that just arrived from Wheeling, that the steamboat Wisconsin sunk a few days ago, near Steubenville. This boat has met with a similar misfortune since she has been running, which is but a few months.

The same gentleman confirms the report in circulation, that the new steamer Union is also sunk at Petticoat bar, above Marietta. The Union is just finished, and during the break-up at Pittsburgh week before last, she started upon her first trip down."

This is news to the owners of the Wisconsin, as she is at Steubenville waiting for a rise of water. The officers left yesterday morning to bring her to this city to take in a load for New Orleans. The Enquirer is the paper that published the story of the Palestine being cut in two by the ice, a few days since. The Enquirer's correspondents are certainly of doubtful accuracy.

The Union is lying to, nine miles below Marietta. She did not receive any injury. So much for the Enquirer's river news.

☞The steamer National arrived at New Orleans on the 21st ult.

☞The steamers Milwaukie and New Hampshire, were to leave Cincinnati for New Orleans on the 1st inst.

☞The Nashville Orthopoliton of the 27th says:

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Dec. 13.

There are at present lying at our port the steamers Patriot, Congress, and Iatan. The steamer Julia Chouteau is hard and fast on a log in front of the town. The Iatan is now raising steam in order to try to pull her off. The Patriot is discharging and will return to New Orleans. The Herald is at Commerce, the Missouri Mail and Olive Branch at Beaver Dam. The Cumberland Valley is about fifteen miles above; there is some danger of her breaking in two.

THE MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE JOURNAL AND AGE, }
Friday Morning, January 2d. }

Business is extremely inactive, as usual in the holidays. We find so little of interest in our examination of the market, that our report is not worth the trouble.

There have been no transactions of importance, and the changes of prices are confined to three or four unimportant articles. Our review is, to a great extent, substantially the same that we gave last week. Flour has declined a shade, notwithstanding light receipts; Whiskey, also tumbled, and Sugar and Molasses have nominally advanced, because there is no stock in market of either. The weather is soft, and appearances favor a reopening of the rivers; without that, we shall have nothing of interest for our market reports. Our Tabular List has been carefully corrected. We intended, to-day, to make further additions to the list than the few we have been able to make, but the business houses were so generally closed yesterday, that our purpose was, to a great extent defeated.

Before we issue our letter sheet, a week or two hence, we will be glad if our mercantile friends will suggest additions to the articles quoted, of such as they think will afford a fuller view of our market.

ALE.—Prices remain as at last report—$7,00, inclusive of bbl.

ASHES.—Pots are dull of sale at 2½c @3¼c.—Scorched Salts 2¾@3c. Some transactions in trade at 3 cts.

BUTTER—Is not in so active request as at last report, but we perceive no decided decline in value. Key continues at 10½c. from wagon, and 10½@11 from store. Roll is still taken at 12@12½c., but careful regard is had to the quality and condition. No higher rate than 12½ is given from store.

BACON.—New bacon is hardly in the market, and old does not require quotations. The asking rate of new is, hog round 7c., Hams 8c., Sides 7c. and shoulders 6½c. Bulk is offered at 6c., without a buyer.

BEANS.—White or Navy beans are in active request and eagerly bought up at $1,12@$1,25 from wagon, and first quality will command $1,31 from store. The supply is light.

BEESWAX.—The small lots arriving are taken readily at 26@27c.

CHEESE.—We find no change in this article since our last, unless it be in diminished request. Prices are without change. From wagon 7@7½c., from store 7½@7¾c. Stock light.

CRACKERS.—The advance reported some two weeks back is maintained. We quote Water at $3,00; Butter $4,75; Pilot bread $3,50; Sugar and Soda crackers 7½c. ₱ lb.

DRIED FRUIT.—Dry Apples have declined.—We note sales of 150 bushels, at $1 44, and 150 at $1 37½. The lower figure is the outside offer to first hands.

Dry Peaches.—We continue to quote as last week at $3 50 from store but we have heard of no sale.

FLOUR.—The receipts are quite light, prices have given way a shade. Some brands were sold on Tuesday and Wednesday at $4 62 down to $4 50. Yesterday the highest offer was $4 62 and sellers were storing generally rather than accept the rate. Extra family brands, to a small extent would, no doubt, still command $4,75, but dealers are backward to buy. $4,62 is a fair average quotation for the wagon loads arriving. Retail sales at $4,87 and Extra at $5,12@$5,25.

Buckwheat Flour is worth $1,75 to $2,00 ₱ 100 lbs.

FISH.—No change in any description, and we refer to our table of prices for quotations.

GRAIN.—Wheat—We continue to quote at 90c., but it ought to be added that at the mills in Allegheny 90@95c. ₱ bushel is given.

Barley is less sought for, but still commands 65 to 75c., as in quality—the higher figure being given only for prime grain.

Rye.—Ready sale at 55c., and we are informed that at Voegtly's mill 60c., has been paid for prime Rye. Very little coming in and demand active.

Oats.—Sales at 33@35c., generally 34@35., is asked for lots, but we hear of sales at 23 and 33 in large quantities. At retail 36@37½ is paid

Corn.—Small sales at 45c., and from store at 50c.

HOPS.—Since our last report, a lot of New York inspection, first sort, sold from one brewer to another at 31 cents. 1600 lbs. in the lot. Our country hops would not, of course, command so high a price.

HAY.—The sales at the City Scales, since our last report, are of about 110 loads of all sizes, at prices varying from $16 to $18 per ton, of 2000 lbs. Some of our farmers are not yet aware, and should be reminded, that gross weight, or the long ton, is not used in weighing Hay.

IRON NAILS AND STEEL.—Juniata Common bar 3½c cash, 3¾c on time. Boiled and puddled bar 3c cash, 3½c time.

Juniata Nails.—10 to 20.d, 4½c. Puddled and boiled nails 4c.

Steel.—Spring 5¾ to 6½. Am Blister 4¾ @ 5½.

Blooms.—No sales, we quote still at $70 ₱ ton, for good Juniata.

PIG METAL.—We have still nothing to report in this great staple of our market. Of course, there have been no receipts, and the stocks of Allegheny in first hands, were long since exhausted. One little lot of 7½ tons, No. 1, sold at $32. In Hanging Rock, we find no sales, and prices remain at $34 to $35.

LARD.—No sales of moment, our figures represent the true state of the market.

MOLASSES.—The last sale we heard of, was at 45c., but there is none in first hands. The moment we have our open river to afford supplies, the price will go down.

PORK.—Little doing. The packers have taken up no new lots this week. Butchers give 4¼ to 3¾ for fat slaughtered Hogs. Arrivals light.

SALT.—Nothing doing beyond a retail business the single bbl. at $1,12.

SEEDS.—Clover sales from wagon at $5,50, from store at $5,62, and to a small extent at $6,00.—Holders generally ask $6,00.

Timothy.—Dealers pay to wagons $2,50 @ $2,75, and sell from store at $3,00, in a retail way.

Flax.—Sales at $1,00 to $1,05.

SUGAR.—No change in price. The stock is extremely light, and receipts are excluded. Prime is nominally worth 7 @ 7½, but no stock.

WHISKEY—Has declined. Early in the week 27@27½ cents was the price, and freely offered. Sales were made even at 28c., but Wednesday the demand stopped, and yesterday sales were made at 25@26c., 25 cts. is now the full value of common whiskey. Rectified has not yet declined with the raw material, and we continue to qote at 26 up to 28c.

WOOL.—No receipts of moment, our last quotations are repeated say prime 33; full blood, 30; ¾ do. 29, (to be clean, light, and free from burs;) ¾ do. 27c; ½ do. 25c; ¼ do. 24c.; common 22@23 cts. Tub washed, 24c.

New Orleans Market.

From the Commercial Times of the 20th and 22d, we glean the following view of the market:

Cotton.—Sales of the week 18,900 bales. To-day there was a good attendance of purchasers, especially for the North, and the sales reached 3,500 bales at steady prices, leaving the market on the Whole, a shade lower than at the date of our last report, but the decline being nearly nominal, we are compelled to retain our former quotations."

Tobacco.—The tobacco market has not presented any new feature during the past few days, and the only sales of any consequence since our last report, consist of 20 hhds at 3¾c.; 25 hhds admitted at 3¾c, and 15 hhds refused at 2½c ₱ lb. The stock is so limited in extent, and is furthermore composed of such few desirable parcels, that the transactions must necessarily continue on a trifling scale until the new crop comes forward.

Sugar.—On Wednesday the sales amounted to about 300 hhds., and yesterday, 350 changed hands, with a drooping market. To-day, the disposition to sell was more manifest, and in most instances holders accepted lower rates, say to the extent of ¼c. The business summed up 300 hhds, making a total of 950 hhds for the past three days. We now quote inferior 5¼c; common 4¾@4¾; Fair 4¾@4¾; prime and strictly choice, 5¼@5¾c ₱ lb. We are not informed of any transactions on plantation during the past three days.

Flour.—Ohio remains at $6,25@6,50, prices being maintained by the closing of the upper rivers.

Rice.—Generally worth $5,50 in tierces, but choice lots at $5,62, and even $5,75.

The Grand Purgative.

CLICKENER'S SUGAR COATED VEGETABLE PILLS, for the cure of

Headache, Giddiness, Rheumatism, Piles,
Dyspepsia, Scurvy, Small Pox, Jaundice,
Pains in the Inward weakness, Palpitation of the Heart, Rising in the Throat,
Back, Asthma, Fevers of all kinds, Female complaints,
Dropsy, Salt Rheum, Worms, Cholera Morbus, Coughs,
Measles, Heartburn, Whooping Cough, Consumption
Quinsy, Fits, Erysipelas, Deafness,
Itchings of the Colds, Gout, Gravel,
Skin, Liver Complaint, Nervous Complaints.

And a variety of other diseases arising from impurities of the blood, and obstructions in the organs of digestion.

Experience has proved that nearly every disease to which the human frame is subject originates from Impurities of the Blood or Derangements of the Digestive Organs; and to secure Health we must remove those obstructions or restore blood to its natural state. This important fact has long been familiar to the world, but our natural aversion to medicine in any shape has hitherto determined us, in many cases, to prefer the disease to its cure. Now, however, the objection is effectually removed by CLICKENER'S PURGATIVE PILLS, which being completely enveloped with a coating of pure white sugar (as distinct from the internal ingredients as a nut shell from the kernel) have no taste of medicine, but are as easily swallowed as bits of candy. Moreover they neither nauseate or gripe in the slightest degree. This is occasioned by the fact that they are compounded on scientific principles and based on an intimate acquaintance with the origin of disease and the actual structure of the human system, which enables them to operate equally on all the diseased parts of the system. Thus, for example, if the Liver be affected, one ingredient will operate on that particular organ, and by cleansing it of that excess of bile it is constantly discharging into the stomach, restore it to its natural state. Another will operate on the blood, and remove those impurities which have already entered into its circulation; while a third will effectually expel from the system whatever impurities may have been discharged into the stomach through the instrumentality of the other ingredients. Hence, they strike at the root of Disease, remove all impure humors (the principal cause of disease) from the body; open the pores externally and internally; promote the insensible perspiration, separate all foreign and obnoxious particles from the Chyle, ensure a free and healthy action to the heart, lungs and liver, and thereby restore health, even when every other means have failed.

The entire truth of the above can be ascertained by the trial of a single box; and their virtues are so positive and certain in restoring health that the proprietor binds himself to return the money paid for them in all cases where they do not give universal satisfaction.

☞ Beware of an imitation article called Improved Sugar-Coated Pills, purporting to be patented, as both the pills and pretended patent are forgeries, got up by a miserable quack in New York, who, for the last four or five years has made his living by counterfeiting popular medicines.

☞ Remember Dr. C. V. Clickener is the original inventor of Sugar Coated Pills, and that nothing of the sort was ever heard of until he introduced them in June, 1843 as will be seen by the following Autumn's Warning.

I HAVE come, I have come, to lay bare the green trees
Alid to sweep through the fields with my turbulent breeze;
I have come to strip hedges while rushing along,
And to silence the note of the warbler's song.
I have come with my mist and my cold falling dew,
To tell you that winter will soon be in view.
I have come to give warning that all ought to wear
The new style of GUMS that excludes the damp air.

I mention these articles because I know well,
That none in the city their beauty conceal;
I'll venture to say that in all the trade round,
Such durable articles there ne'er can be found.
These GUMS, you will find, are sure to resist
The cold blowing breeze and the chill Autumn mist.

My breezes may blow and my vapors may fall,
But the mineralized GUM is sure to stand all.
You'll never have cause to regret what you've done,
In purchasing shoes made of mineralized Gum.
Then take my advice, and wear the Gum shoes;
And remember, it is the true Autumn news.
